Happy Birthday and Anniversary

Rose and Charles Broussard celebrated their 90th birthday and 67th wedding anniversary during a large family and friends gathering at Palmetto State Park. The couple has three sons, and one daughter, 12 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. Music was provided by Jane and John Volrine, with an accordion, guitar and fiddle. Over 100 guests attended the event, along with a surprise visit from long time friend, ex-governor Edwin Edwards.

Note: Lillian Cade taught at Henry for 32 years and at Chenier au Tigre for 4 years prior to that. She was the first grade teacher of Warren's class. She was the granddaughter of Lastie Broussard and her mother was Martha Odile Broussard Cade wife of William Cade. Lillian also taught first grade catechism and prepared the first communion kids every year at St John's in Henry for many decades.

1950 Henry High Class Reunion honors three former teachers

By Chris Rosa
Managing Editor

Saturday afternoon was the 50th class reunion for the 1965 graduating class of Henry High School. What made this reunion special was not the graduates who attended but the former teachers who were there.

The reunion was held at Warren Perrin's parents' old home, which is less than a mile from the old Henry High School, which is no longer standing. Perrin, the class president, orchestrated the reunion and also invited three teachers who taught the students either in elementary school or high school.

In attendance were teachers Edna Mae Landry, a second grade teacher, Billie Wayne Broussard, an English teacher and former librarian, and Johnny Picard, a former ag teacher.

They were greeted by nine out of 13 graduates.

Broussard, who is 80, was also given a special honor by being inducted into the Living Legends in Erath. She was inducted because of her total years in education in Vermilion Parish. She retired in 1990.

Perrin presented her with the honor, which she was not expecting. Her family was on hand to witness her induction.

"She came to Henry High School to help prepare to teaching us English and she

"Without Mrs. Broussard I would still be in high school. Thank you."

"We learned a little bit of English and we became friends," said Broussard. "Many are still my friends. I really enjoyed teaching at Henry. I enjoyed the people. Thank you all very much. You all have given me a distinct honor."

Edna Mae Landry only taught at Henry High School for one year - her first year in education. It was a second grade class.

Landry, who is from Maurice, said she is not sure why she did not stay longer at Henry. After leaving Henry, she taught at a school in Abbeville before ending up at Maurice High School, the school she graduated from.

"I kept getting closer and closer to Maurice," said Landry, who is now 84 years old. She retired from teaching in 1984.

Legendary coach Johnny Picard began his coaching career at Henry High School. It was his first coaching job, as well as teaching job. His basketball team won only two games his final year at Henry School.

He became the Maurice High School

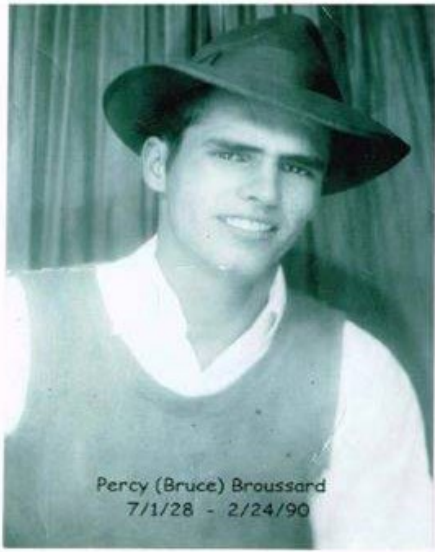

he won two basketball state titles and a handful of track state titles.

Picard, who graduated from Maurice High in 1955, admitted going from the relaxed atmosphere of Henry to a school where winning was expected.

"Maurice had a good feeder program and they had good freshmen coming up, so I did not mind coming," said Picard. "You were taking a chance. I told Warren (Perrin) when I was at Henry, we would cheer on the way to a game and we would cheer on the way back."

BROUSSARD

In Broussard, Louisiana, stands a monument dedicated to a man who spent most of his life two thousand miles north in Acadie. The British of his day called him an outlaw, murderer and pirate. The French called him a patriot, founder of New Acadia. One thing neither his friends nor his enemies called him was his baptized name, Joseph Brossard. They called him "Beausoleil".

Joseph's brother Claude settled in Port Royal. After the deportation, Claude's sons Charles and Pierre settled in Pomquet (1764 and 1792) and their descendants remain here to this day.

This plaque, commemorating the Broussard Heritage, was erected by La Famille Broussard Société, Nouvelle- Écosse, (Acadie) through a donation by the Famille Beausoleil Association, Broussard, Louisiana. 08/12/2004.

Acadian Festival's tintamarre makes noise for National Acadian Day
by Tory Bonenfant, News Director
a month ago

MADAWASKA, Maine - Costumed walkers, with noisemakers, took part in a downtown "Grand Tintamarre" on Friday evening.

The annual Acadian Festival noise parade, with a designated route of nearly a half-mile, coincided this year with Congrès mondial acadien 2014 / 2014 World Acadian Congress. Its purpose was to celebrate National Acadian Day on Aug. 15.

Wearing T-shirts with family names, colorful costumes, Grosses Têtes and stilts, participants left the St. Thomas Aquinas Catholic Church parking lot at 5:55 p.m. and proceeded down 11th Avenue to Main Street, then east and up 5th Avenue to the Multi-Purpose Building. Spectators lined Main Street to watch the parade, banging noisemakers and blowing horns.

The international bridge in Madawaska was open to foot traffic only, so as to prevent the Main Street route from becoming congested.

Camille and Ada Broussard family reunion

Following in the French tradition of having New Year's Day as a family celebration and reserving Christmas day as a religious feast, the Camille Broussard family of Maurice, has been reuniting each Jan. 1 for the past 50 years.

Ada Hebert Broussard lost her husband, Camille, during the height of the Depression, leaving her with 10 surviving children. They were Edward, Doris (Dartez), Lastie, Gladys (Trahan), Wallace, Alice (Schroder), John, Willie, Walter and Faye (Prejean).

From 1952 until 1962, the family met in Ada Broussard's small two bedroom home located on the main street in Maurice, across the street from the church. When the dwelling became too small to hold the large family the celebration was moved to Veteran's Home in Breaux Bridge. With the exception of two years when the reunion was held at halls in Cecilia, "I'll see you in Breaux Bridge," has meant not the crawfish festival, but the Broussard New Year's day reunion. Special efforts are made to reunite all of the family; nearly all 49 grandchildren and 100 great-grandchildren met for the traditional dinner.

The rental income from the home in Maurice pays for the event, which underscores the Broussard family's belief that its brother and sisters and its cousins are its greatest resources.

Megan Elizabeth Broussard, the daughter of Brandon and Mary Broussard of Lafayette is the Spring 2009 Outstanding Graduate for the College of Liberal Arts. She is a public relations major with minors in business and Spanish.

Broussard has maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average her entire time at UL. She has been a member of numerous honor societies including Blue Key Honor Society, Sigma Gamma Mu Communication Honor Society, Phi Beta Delta International Honor Society, Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and Alpha Lambda Delta Honor Society, where she's served as the membership vice president.

Her many scholarships include The Calvin J. Lear Memorial Non-Endowed Scholarship, UL Study Abroad Scholarship, Alumni Association Endowed Scholarship for Liberal Arts, SGA Scholarship (three years), Liberal Arts A.L. Borcelona Endowed Scholarship, UL Academic Excellence Scholarship, UL Centennial Valedictorian Scholarship and TOPS Award.

Broussard has been named to the Dean's List every semester of college and has been an honoree at the Honors Convocation for the past three years. She's won the Kappa Delta Sorority Academic Award in 2008 and the Greek Affairs Academic Excellence Award from 2006 till present.

For her outstanding work in public relations, she has won first place in the 2008 National Public Relations Student Society of America/ Betsy Plank Scholarship. She also won the Stephen D. Lipinski Memorial Scholarship, a national scholarship open to journalism and public relations students. Other awards include the Outstanding UL Lafayette PRSSA Member Award, SGA College President of the Year Award and the Public Relations Association of Louisiana's Jack H. Sanders Memorial Award. Broussard is the first UL student to win the Sanders award in the last 10 years.

Broussard has also been a maid on the 2008 Homecoming Court, Krewe of Roux for Mardi Gras, won SGA Senator of the Month (twice) and the winner of LEDA's marketing competition where the team's marketing campaign was used in a pitch to a company's convention in Las Vegas.

Broussard also spends time helping in community events such as Habitat for Humanity, The Children's Museum and the American Heart Association. She was a mentor at N.P. Moss Middle School and was a judge at the regional Science Fair.

While balancing her coursework, Broussard studied abroad in France and completed four internships with the American Heart Association, the Bobby Jindal Gubernatorial Campaign, the Lafayette Consolidated Government's Le Centre International de Lafayette and Right Angle Advertising Agency. She is also nominated for Greek Woman of the Year.

After graduation, Broussard plans to work for an international public relations firm. She eventually would like to enter corporate public relations specializing in international communication. She also aspires to earn a master's degree and become a UL Lafayette instructor.
