Death: Apr. 30, 2009, Iraq

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Tyler Trahan, 22, of East Freetown Massachusetts. A third generation serviceman, he ranked in the Top 10 of his high school graduating class, was a National Honor Society member and was the star quarterback and captain of his high school football team. After his 2004 graduation from Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School in Rochester, he attended Massachusetts Maritime Academy in Bourne. It was not exactly what he thought it was going to be, so he decided to enlist in the Navy in May of 2006. Tyler graduated from boot camp at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Illinois, in July 2006, and carried the golden sword, a symbol of the class leader. He was offered an opportunity to attend the United States Navy Academy at Annapolis, but turned it down to attend special operations training and become an explosives ordinance disposal technician. He attended the Center for Naval Engineering in Great Lakes, then Naval Dive and Salvage Training Center in Panama City, Florida, and finally Naval Explosive Ordnance Disposal School at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida from November 2006 to October 2007. His next duty station was Explosive Ordnance Disposal Training and Evaluation Unit ONE in San Diego from November to December 2007, and then on to Explosive Ordnance Disposal Mobile Unit TWELVE in Norfolk, Virginia, in December 2007. Deployed to Iraq early in 2009, with an East Coast based Navy SEAL team, he was killed while conducting combat operations in Fallujah, Iraq. His awards and decorations include the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V" (Valor) Distinguishing Device, Purple Heart, Combat Action Ribbon, National Defense Service Medal, Iraq Campaign Medal, and Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal. Tyler was the son of Jean-Pierre and Maureen Anne (O'Malley) Trahan of East Freetown. Brother of Molly Jean Trahan of East Freetown, Tyler was also the grandson of Claudette Mae (Allain) O'Malley of New Bedford and the late John J. O'Malley Jr., Antoinette (Gaudette) Trahan and Roger Trahan. Tyler leaves many Uncles, Aunts and Cousins and Loving Friends. Bio by: Sue

The Barre native has gone bungee jumping, reverse bungee jumping, paragliding, white-water rafting, scuba diving and water skiing, and he goes on a pontoon boat every chance he gets.

Anything for the thrill, the adventure, he said.

Friday afternoon, in a field off Route 17 in West Addison, Trahan had his latest adventure. Just a month shy of his 85th birthday, the Colchester resident jumped 12,000 feet from a plane.

“You are as young as you feel,” he said before the jump. “I saw George(H.W.) Bush do it four years ago and I said if he can do it, by God so can I.”

The retired customs officer continued: “I’ve done everything. There is nothing I have not done. I have always loved the thrill.”

“I just love it. It scares you but that’s a part of life,” Trahan said of all his adventures. “You know you are not going to die.”

Friday’s jump was not Trahan’s first. His first was in 1990 with several of his children, followed by a second jump just two years after.

On one of those occasions, Trahan said he was having so much fun free falling that he almost forgot to pull the cord to release the parachute.

“I was enjoying it so much and then I get a tap on the shoulder and I am thinking ‘What does this guy want,’” he explained. “He did it again and then went in front and pulled the cord. I would have plowed into the ground.”

He added, "The free fall is wonderful."

For this latest jump Friday, Trahan was joined by his 35-year-old granddaughter, Liz McMahon, of Boston, and his niece, Diana Deller, of Naugatuck, Conn.

"As soon as I heard (the plan), I said, 'Me too, me too, me too,'" McMahon said. It was her first jump.

They were also joined at Vermont Skydiving Adventures by Mike Lynch of Naugatuck, Conn., and Kathy Arcovitch of Essex Junction.

Waiting for Trahan on steady ground, as she has for more than six decades, was his wife, Marjorie. The couple celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary Thursday.

"She let's me do anything," he said. "She lines up the policies in case I don't come back."

Marjorie Trahan, 88, said when they first got married he would jump from some cliffs near their home and she never stopped him.

"I said, 'don't worry, I have all the policies out,'" she said while taking photos with an IPAD. "If he's happy, everyone is happy."

Around 4 p.m. Friday afternoon Trahan and McMahon — the last ones in the group to go — loaded into a small propeller plane and flew up 12,000 feet. They said it took them about 20 minutes before the plane door opened.

"You are just sitting here on the plane and the wind is blowing and all of a sudden you are shoved out and you go really fast," Trahan said.

McMahon said they got to go through a cloud, which was one of her favorite parts after the free fall.

"It was awesome," she said.

"It was awesome with a capital A," her grandfather said quickly after. "I may be back at 90 ... If the good Lord allows it." BRUNO JOSEPH TRAHAN and MARJORIE ROSALIE BONNETTE were married on 20 Jun 1950 in BURLINGTON, VT.

This weekend, the former Bay City Central swimming sensation is being inducted into the Central Michigan University Hall of Fame, joining the likes of three-time NBA all-star Dan Majerle, Super Bowl linebacker Ray Bentley and legendary broadcaster Dick Enberg in the ring of honor.

However, it's an honor she thought she might never receive.

"When (CMU) lost its swim team, I thought we might not be looked at the same as other sports," she said. "So when I found out, I was kind of taken aback. It was wild."

CMU disbanded its swim program in 1982, Cipriano's final year on the team. But she certainly made the most of her time with the program, breaking two Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) records — the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle. She also left with eight CMU individual records, including the 50, 100, 200, 500 and 1,000 freestyle and 50, 100 and 200 backstroke. She was also a key member of five CMU record-holding relay teams, the 200, 400 and 800 freestyle and the 200 and 400 medley.

All this while qualifying for two AIAW national championships in the 50-yard and 100-yard freestyle.

"I made the nationals my freshman year. That was by far my biggest accomplishment," Cipriano said.

While her time at CMU was spent mostly breaking records, she was not originally recruited on a full-ride scholarship. Cipriano joined the Chippewas on a partial scholarship before earning her way to a full-ride, which she used to earn a degree in public health.

"I didn't realize how fortunate I was," she said. "I didn't really go in there as a top recruit, but I really grew that year.

"Swimming was very different at that time. It wasn't as professional as it is now. No one ever got paid. It was more amateur then."

Starting around age 2 or 3, Cipriano and her siblings spent much of their time at the Bay City Country Club pool, where many of them competed as Bay County Swimmers.

Cipriano, now living in Farmington Hills, spent her first five years out of college coaching the Essexville Garber boys and Handy girls swimming teams. She has four children, with only one showing any interest in swimming.

"My 6-year-old daughter sort of likes it," she said. "There's just so much more for them to do now."

Cipriano joins fellow Bay City athletes such as Ken Loop, Karen Karner Michalak, Tom Krawczyk, Kris Tipmore Popp and Jim Nesbitt in the CMU Hall of Fame.

And while Cipriano is understandably disappointed CMU's swim team is now defunct, she does see one silver lining.

"They lost the team after my last year there," she said. "So I still have all the records."ROSEMARY J "ROSE" TRAHAN and
