- 60517 v LAWRENCE LEBOEUF was born (date unknown). Lawrence was killed in November 1950 which was about nine months after he entered the Korean war. In November 1953, Corporal Lawrence LeBoeuf was posthumously awarded the Purple Heart given to US soldiers killed or wounded in combat. His remains were not found until July 24, 1996. Lawrence's remains were the first returned since 162 sets of remains were returned from 1993 through 1994. Only six of the previous 162 remains could be positively identified. A local farmer showed the gravesite to the North Korean and USA authorities. The remains included Lawrence's "dog tags". Positive identification was made through dental records. Lawrence's remains were placed into a tomb at Westlawn Cemetery on October 5, 1996 in Greta, Louisiana. Seated in the front row at the funeral were his sisters Nora Buquet, Dorothy Gaspard and Mable Rousselle.

Laura Mae Dufrene, who is Lawrence's twin sister, experienced what seemed to her a prophetic dream about her brother while he was in Korea. Laura Mae said "He was in a foxhole and he was raising his hand to me and saying "Laura Mae, help me". I started to cry and I woke up and asked God, "How can I help my brother". Laura Mae said "I never dreamed of him since. As far as I was concerned, that was the night he died. Lawrence was in fact found in a foxhole position.

Lawrence's unit, the 2nd Battalion of the 8th Cavalry Regiment, and two other battalions, were fighting the Chinese in P'yongan-Pukto Province when he disappeared. More than 390 members of the regiment, including Lawrence, failed to return from the battle.
