Narrated by Ryan Brooks: As the University looks back at its hundred-year history at the events, at the places where it happened, and the people who participated, we take time to honor those who came before us and on whose work we built.

Within this retrospective stance, we see the College of Education, which has existed almost since the beginning of the University itself.

This Centennial disk represents the largest collaborative effort ever undertaken by the College of Education -- The Academic Showcase.

It challenged the creativity and dedication of the faculty, students, staff, administrators, alumni, area school systems, and the business community to work in a unique blend of spirit and loyalty.

Although there is much more than could be included, contained within this disc you will find a written history detailing the myriad of changes within the college, oral histories from some of the participants in the college's history, a documentation of the college's Academic Showcase activities, and a book of letters containing over 100 personal stories from people who have been directly affected by the life of the college.

A more complete record has been submitted to the University Archive for public viewing.

Within these four areas, faculty and alumni were able to relive fond memories and create new ones as everyone was invited to participate in this time of celebration both on and off-campus.

The slogan "Get on the Disk" encouraged all to be a part of these historical events, and by doing so documented their presence.

To all those who participated in the life of the college, be it 100 years ago or last November, we say thank you for enriching this document with your time and presence.
