Miss Lucille Arceneaux was hostess to the A.A.U.W. Book Discussion Group when they met in her home on Butcher Switch Road Monday evening.

Discussion of a new type of book, classified as non-fiction concerning real people and actual events but written in the style of a novel, was led by Miss Arceneaux. Often the purpose of this style is to present a social problem. Among the books discussed were Capote’s “In Cold Blood”, Zierold’s “Little Charlie Ross”, and Johnson’s “On Iniquity”.

Testing Values in a Changing Society, the theme for the current year’s study groups, was discussed. The importance of a strong sense of responsibility and developing personal capabilities was discussed.

Mrs. E.P. Arceneaux and Miss Aline Arceneaux helped serve refreshments. Out of town guest was Mrs. R.H. Etheredge of Saluda, South Carolina, Mrs. Chieri’s mother.
