Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Termened
Biggest Statewide Ceremony in History

Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Termened
Biggest Statewide Ceremony in History

A relatively little-known and lesser published event in Louisiana's history will probably provide the clue with the biggest statewide celebration in its history during 1954, and stand to attains upwards of $150 million in new tourist money during the year.

That event was the migration of the Acadians from Nova Scotia almost 300 years ago, scheduled for commemorations in Louisiana in 1954 on the Acadian Bicentennial Celebration.

The Acadians migration is today familiar to new Americans as the motive material for Louisiana's own poem, "Evangeline." The Acadians were a group of about 8,000 outlaws from the lowlands of France, exiles who had settled in Nova Scotia (then Acadia) and were expelled in 1755 from the territory by the British because of their refusal to take an oath of allegiance to the King which might compel them to use their time to take up arms against their own countrymen.

During 1755, and for several years thereafter the Acadians, consisting of the British colony were deported. Some perished at sea; others were driven by the British to Settled, others, instead remained to find their way to Virginia, were sent to English colonies that they may be Maryland. From them proceeding to Louisiana, a trail they, for instance, make in 1851 presented to the Apalachicola, a trail they held almost as being similar to their native land in natural language and people.

Louisiana's decision to entertain the Centennial plans back January, 1951, when a group of leaders from Louisiana and foreign leaders gathered at Lafayette for a meeting called by the Department of Commerce Sales and Industry to draft plans. From that meeting, and from subsequent meetings, the Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Association was formed. The group in statewide, with representatives from each congressional district serving on the board of directors. Thos. H. Adams, Lafayette, Louisiana, president, and vice-president of the association.

A full scale of discussions has been start with an appearance at the Los Angeles Rose Bowl of Los Angeles and Los Angeles. Acadian folk dances and dances from the Mississippi Valley. This year the entire Acadian folk song and dance has been followed to commemorate the Acadian Bicentennial:

Over 6,500 people will attend the bicentennial celebration. The celebration will be held in 1954, and stand to attain upwards of $150 million in new tourist money during the year.

In addition, the Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Association has been formed to plan and coordinate the celebration. The association consists of representatives from each congressional district serving on the board of directors.

The celebration will include various events, such as the Acadian Folk Dances and the Acadian Folk Songs. These events will be held in various locations throughout the state, including the Louisiana State Fairgrounds and the Mississippi Valley.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Association has been working hard to plan and coordinate the celebration. They have organized various committees to handle different aspects of the celebration, such as the planning committee, the finance committee, and the advertising committee. The association has also been working with local groups and organizations to ensure that the celebration is a success.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration is a significant event in Louisiana's history. It is a celebration of the Acadians and their contribution to the state. The celebration is a way to honor the Acadians and their legacy, and to ensure that their story is remembered for generations to come.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration will be held in 1954, and stand to attain upwards of $150 million in new tourist money during the year. The celebration will be held in various locations throughout the state, including the Louisiana State Fairgrounds and the Mississippi Valley.

The celebration will include various events, such as the Acadian Folk Dances and the Acadian Folk Songs. These events will be held in various locations throughout the state, including the Louisiana State Fairgrounds and the Mississippi Valley.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Association has been working hard to plan and coordinate the celebration. They have organized various committees to handle different aspects of the celebration, such as the planning committee, the finance committee, and the advertising committee. The association has also been working with local groups and organizations to ensure that the celebration is a success.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration is a significant event in Louisiana's history. It is a celebration of the Acadians and their contribution to the state. The celebration is a way to honor the Acadians and their legacy, and to ensure that their story is remembered for generations to come.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration will be held in 1954, and stand to attain upwards of $150 million in new tourist money during the year. The celebration will be held in various locations throughout the state, including the Louisiana State Fairgrounds and the Mississippi Valley.

The celebration will include various events, such as the Acadian Folk Dances and the Acadian Folk Songs. These events will be held in various locations throughout the state, including the Louisiana State Fairgrounds and the Mississippi Valley.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration Association has been working hard to plan and coordinate the celebration. They have organized various committees to handle different aspects of the celebration, such as the planning committee, the finance committee, and the advertising committee. The association has also been working with local groups and organizations to ensure that the celebration is a success.

The Acadian Bicentennial Celebration is a significant event in Louisiana's history. It is a celebration of the Acadians and their contribution to the state. The celebration is a way to honor the Acadians and their legacy, and to ensure that their story is remembered for generations to come.