ACADIAN SYMPOSIUM — An Acadian Symposium, marking the 200th anniversary of the arrival of the Acadians in Louisiana, will be held at the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Grand Coteau Saturday, Nov. 6, beginning at 9 a.m., according to Dr. T. J. Arceneaux, University of Southwestern Louisiana, dean of the College of Agriculture. Among speakers for the symposium (shown from left to right) are USL Professor Ira S. Nelson; Dean Arceneaux; Miss Marie Louise Comeaux, director of the USL School of Home Economics; and Dr. Hosea Phillips, USL Professor of French. Not shown is the Rev. C. J. McNaspy, S.J., New York City, associate editor of “American Magazine” and the Hon. James F. Bezou, New Orleans, president of L’Athenee Louisianais, who will also be featured speaker at the Symposium. The Acadian Symposium is under the sponsorship of the Lafayette chapter of France Amerique de la Louisiane Acadienne.