Acadiana A Natural For World Trade

BY GLENN PONTBRIOT

Editor New Orleans

Acadiana stood and could be a realized in the world of international trade was the message expressed at the small

International Relations

Convention of Acadiana businessmen and women held

January 11 in Jackson

Miss. For the last time.

Saw W. H. Chambon

Chairman and head of the Acadiana Development and Planning Board, and former president of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce, who presided.

The keynote address was made by W. H. Chambon,

Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Acadiana Development and Planning Board, who repeatedly stressed the need for the development of Acadiana in the world trade market.

Acadiana could be a great force in world trade.

Chambon said that the Acadiana region was rich in natural resources and had a population of over a million people. The region was divided into three areas, each with its own unique characteristics. The north was known for its forests and minerals, the south for its rich farmland, and the center for its oil and gas fields.

The keynote address was followed by several presentations on the potential of the Acadiana region in the world trade market. The presentations were given by representatives from companies in the region, and emphasized the need for investment in the area.

The convention was held in the beautiful Jackson

Chamber of Commerce building, and was attended by over 200 people.

The convention concluded with a reception at the Acadiana Hotel, where attendees had the opportunity to network and discuss the opportunities presented during the conference.

The Acadiana Development and Planning Board will continue to work towards the development of Acadiana in the world trade market, and will hold its next convention in February of next year.
