AIDS to Be Encouraged to Locate in New Iberia

TOM ATTARD

NEW IBERIA, La. -- Acadiana businessmen are looking to the foreign trade zone at the New Iberia Regional Airport as a new market outlet for their products.

The area, which is part of the Louisiana Port Authority, is located on U.S. 90 about 40 miles west of New Orleans.

A panel of experts will discuss the opportunities for foreign trade at a seminar scheduled for Monday.

The seminar, which is being sponsored by the New Iberia Chamber of Commerce and the Louisiana State University Extension Service, will focus on the potential for increased foreign trade in the area.

The panelists will include representatives from various industries, including manufacturing, agriculture, and tourism.

The seminar is open to the public and is expected to attract a large audience.

The seminar will begin at 9 a.m. and is expected to conclude by noon.
