Apres Tout
By Corona Justice
Women's News Reporter

You wake up in the morning, feeling refreshed. Your hands are clean, your hair is tidy, and the bedroom door is closed.

Your mother puts on her coat and leaves for work. She is dressed in a smart, professional outfit that matches her business image.

She steps out onto the street, and a taxi waits for her. She boards the taxi and the driver asks, "Where to?"

She replies, "The office." The taxi drives away, and your mother enters the office building.

Inside, she greets her colleagues and goes to her desk. She sits down and begins her workday, focusing on her tasks.

After a few hours, she takes a break and goes to the cafeteria for lunch. She enjoys a delicious meal with her coworkers.

Back in the office, she continues her work until the end of the day, when she packs up her belongings and heads home.

As she approaches her house, she Carbures her keys and unlocks the door. She enters the house and closes the door behind her.

Inside, she takes off her coat and goes to the kitchen. She prepares a hearty meal and sits down to eat.

After dinner, she sits down on the couch and reads a book. She enjoys a peaceful evening before going to bed.

The next morning, she wakes up refreshed and ready to start another day of work.