Since its opening in January "Paste Acadien" on U. S. Highway 90 in Lafayette, Louisiana, has attracted tourists from many of the states of the Union as well as some from foreign countries. The house is furnished in the manner of a typical Acadian house of the early settlers in the area.

Mrs. Dennis Mouton, in charge of "Paste de Acadien," is shown in the front room of the house. Some of the handicrafts, sketches and old authentic Acadian pieces with which the house is furnished can be seen.

Insidio Paste Acadien

One tourist couple told Mrs. Mouton that they had been around the United States sixteen times but were planning to leave California to settle here. Area visitors, who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien".

"Paste Acadien," symbol of an era, is located at 704 College Avenue (part of U. S. Highway 90) in Lafayette. The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area. Mrs. Mouton said, for tourists and those who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien". The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area.

Authentic Acadian House On U. S. 90 Attracts Tourists

By Marie Mamalakis

Since the opening of the Acadian Bicentennial year celebration in Louisiana, people all over the United States have come to know the Acadian story and to be interested in a culture and a spirit of a people which triumphed over so many vicissitudes. The men of Vermilionville (Lafayette) have come to know the yettle) ling pIe which triumphed over so many the now controversial' book "His- you went along at night and watch-

Mrs. Dennis Mouton, in charge of "Paste de Acadien," is shown in the front room of the house. Some of the handicrafts, sketches and old authentic Acadian pieces with which the house is furnished can be seen.

Insidio Paste Acadien

One tourist couple told Mrs. Mouton that they had been around the United States sixteen times but were planning to leave California to settle here. Area visitors, who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien".

"Paste Acadien," symbol of an era, is located at 704 College Avenue (part of U. S. Highway 90) in Lafayette. The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area. Mrs. Mouton said, for tourists and those who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien". The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area.

Authentic Acadian House On U. S. 90 Attracts Tourists

By Marie Mamalakis

Since the opening of the Acadian Bicentennial year celebration in Louisiana, people all over the United States have come to know the Acadian story and to be interested in a culture and a spirit of a people which triumphed over so many vicissitudes. The men of Vermilionville (Lafayette) have come to know the yettle) ling pIe which triumphed over so many the now controversial' book "His- you went along at night and watch-

Mrs. Dennis Mouton, in charge of "Paste de Acadien," is shown in the front room of the house. Some of the handicrafts, sketches and old authentic Acadian pieces with which the house is furnished can be seen.

Insidio Paste Acadien

One tourist couple told Mrs. Mouton that they had been around the United States sixteen times but were planning to leave California to settle here. Area visitors, who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien".

"Paste Acadien," symbol of an era, is located at 704 College Avenue (part of U. S. Highway 90) in Lafayette. The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area. Mrs. Mouton said, for tourists and those who come to see the things which were typical in the homes of their parents or grandparents, also promise to add another item to their possession, but which is not represented in "Paste Acadien". The house is furnished with furniture, utensils and other articles found in the homes of the early Acadians, who settled in this area.