Bienvenu

A warm bienvenu a la Lafayette to the delegates to the Congress of the French-speaking Americans here this week.

The revival of the French language and heritage in Acadiana and throughout Louisiana has opened many splendid opportunities to this area, one of the nicest of which is the chance to find closer ties with neighbors from throughout the French speaking world.

Lafayette can be pleased and proud to host this conference, which focuses attention on Acadiana’s capital, and we trust the delegates to the conference will find the Acadian hospitality and a taste of bayou water to their liking.
