The Baton Rouge area has six full-service hospitals, two psychiatric hospitals and several multi-specialty clinics.

The full-service hospitals in East Baton Rouge Parish are:

- Baton Rouge General Medical Center in the City on Florida Boulevard at Acadian Thruway.
- Baton Rouge General Medical Center-Bluebonnet, off Bluebonnet Boulevard, offers an array of outpatient services and inpatient care.
- LSU-Earl K. Long Medical Center, a public hospital managed by Louisiana State University health services, is on Airline Highway near Greenwell Street.
- Our Lady of the Lake Regional Medical Center, operated by the Catholic Franciscan Missionaries of Our Lady, is on Essen Lane near Interstate 10. The hospital, as the hospital is commonly known, has announced plans to buy Riverview Medical Center in Ascension Parish later this year.
- Lane Memorial Hospital, a community not-for-profit hospital on Main Street in Zachary.
- Summit Hospital at Interstate 12 and O’Neal Lane.

Each of those hospitals offers a range of medical, surgical and diagnostic services, community outreach and educational programs that promote wellness. All of the hospitals provide emergency care.

The area also has a small private psychiatric hospital, Meadow Wood off Perkins Road near Bluebonnet, and one state public psychiatric hospital, Grewell Springs Hospital, off Greenwell Springs Road.

Baton Rouge has one hospital that specializes in rehabilitating patients who suffer serious injuries or debilitating illnesses, HEALTH-SOUTH Rehabilitation Hospital of Baton Rouge on United Plaza Boulevard.

Lane Memorial Hospital plans to open a rehabilitation center later this year, and Ascension Hospital in Gonzales has said it is considering a rehabilitation facility.

The area also has at least three multi-specialty clinics: the Stanocola Medical Clinic on North Foster Drive, the Baton Rouge Clinic, and the Ochsner Clinic of Baton Rouge.

The Baton Rouge Clinic runs clinics on Goodwood Boulevard and on Perkins Road.

Ochsner runs four clinics in East Baton Rouge Parish—Goodwood, Mid-City, Bluebonnet and East (O’Neal Lane).

The East Baton Rouge Parish Health Unit, located on Florida Boulevard and run by the state, provides vaccinations and other health services.
