The male residence hall known for its loudness and partying atmosphere was Caffery. The main goal set by the staff was to diminish this attitude. We had as many activities as possible... As for discipline, we have really cracked down on noise problems... we are working on giving Caffery a new look... compared to the past, there is a difference," said House Director, Jag Khugman.

There were several activities Caffery residents enjoyed in their extracurricular time in the hall. Caffery had a Halloween party with Stokes, Bonin, and Buchanan on Oct. 31, a barbecue with Stokes, McCullough, and various female halls.

The men are looking forward to the upcoming Lip Sync contest with Harris, along with a pre-Thanksgiving party.

As the atmosphere stands now, Khugman believes, "It's young and enthusiastic, people know this is a lively place to be... you meet a lot of new friends here."

Spirit strong despite small numbers

Among the small halls, Evangeline lies between Harris and Buchanan. It houses about sixty residents, including freshmen and upperclassmen, throughout the semester.

Due to the small amount of people, Leslie DiMaggio, Resident Hall Counselor expressed the staff's goals of the semester, "We want everyone to get to know everyone else... we want to make the hall the best it can be."

Evangeline had a few activities throughout the semester. Along with Homecoming, they had a movie night and a party.

Evangeline is one of the 'small halls'

The atmosphere of Evangeline is quiet, yet friendly and clean. The fact that Evangeline does not have air conditioning does not put a damper on the spirit of the staff or the residents.
