April then decided to work with her gift instead of against it. "When my oldest, he's 22 now, when he was in his room, he was yelling at the 'person' and grabbed his gun. After searching the building, he finally ran out of bullets and let the 'person' go." April, however, has not been so lucky. "I've had experiences throughout my life that I've been unable to explain, things that are unexplainable and that I cannot understand," she said. "I believe that my life is marked by the presence of something mysterious and inexplicable." April's experiences have included vivid dreams, sensing the presence of others, and having conversations with the dead. "I have had encounters with people who have passed on, and I feel their presence in my daily life," she said. "I believe that these experiences are a part of my spiritual journey, and I am grateful for them." April's gift has allowed her to connect with the spiritual world and to communicate with those who have passed on. "I have had the opportunity to help families connect with their loved ones, and it is a rewarding experience," she said. "I am honored to be able to provide comfort and peace to those who are grieving." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe." April's experiences have also led her to question the nature of the universe and the existence of a higher power. "I believe that there is a purpose to our lives, and that we are connected to something greater than ourselves," she said. "I am committed to exploring this purpose and discovering the truth about the nature of the universe."