MELTING POT SYNDROME VANISHING Awaken To Heritage

By BILL ROBB

The melting pot syndrome, a core feature of the American way of life, is melting away in the United States as more and more schools and publishers assert their identity. "Cajuns," one of the groups, is more evident than the American Negro in the balance bilingual," plaguing the state into pov. and propagandized against it became part of the "lower people ashamed of their na-til the American Civil years ago, the Louisiana Huey Long a visit to "The Home of and the West Indies. ment of French

Those few who survived "They've almost killed the language of the street et tragedy told in the "Cajun Renais· got the name from a con-

Historians record that, as "Well," he adds emphatic-that emerged in America

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The most innocent and

The suppression of

Of the time, even among the English to one great, culturally co-

Do not hallucinate.

Cajuns, a core feature of decreed that French will be more evident than American Negro the ana bilingual."

The emergence of these, generation, intelligent and talents that have been brought about by a growing awakening of their heritage and re-discovery of it is the full story of the Cajuns. A little more than 200 years ago, the Louisiana Acadians were exiled from their homes here in Can-daugmented by those struggling and hardships for new-found home.

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,
the woodlands. There, the
struments so often live in

- The suppression of

- The French-speaking peo-

the region, were eager that
days and spoke French,
Lyby way of the West In-
dioxide and spoke French,