Currier And Ives Acadian Scene Litho,
Scribner Drawing at Lafayette Museum

Dr. Marie Manuthia

Plan for the museum's English exhibit.

For any English-speaking visitor, the story of the Acadian expulsion from New France is one that is often told.

The expulsion was a result of the French and Indian War, in which the French were defeated by the British. The British wanted to expel the Acadians from their land.

The Acadians were a group of people who spoke French and lived in the Louisiana region. They were forced to leave their homes and were sent to other parts of the world.

The Louisiana Room

September 1, 1957

The Currier And Ives Acadian Scene Litho, a popular print, is on display at the Scribner Drawing at Lafayette Museum.

The drawing shows a scene from Acadian history. It is a depiction of the early days of the Acadian settlement in Louisiana.

The Acadians were a group of people who spoke French and lived in the Louisiana region. They were forced to leave their homes and were sent to other parts of the world.

The Louisiana Room

September 1, 1957

The Currier And Ives Acadian Scene Litho, a popular print, is on display at the Scribner Drawing at Lafayette Museum.

The drawing shows a scene from Acadian history. It is a depiction of the early days of the Acadian settlement in Louisiana.

The Acadians were a group of people who spoke French and lived in the Louisiana region. They were forced to leave their homes and were sent to other parts of the world.

The Louisiana Room

September 1, 1957

The Currier And Ives Acadian Scene Litho, a popular print, is on display at the Scribner Drawing at Lafayette Museum.

The drawing shows a scene from Acadian history. It is a depiction of the early days of the Acadian settlement in Louisiana.

The Acadians were a group of people who spoke French and lived in the Louisiana region. They were forced to leave their homes and were sent to other parts of the world.

The Louisiana Room

September 1, 1957

The Currier And Ives Acadian Scene Litho, a popular print, is on display at the Scribner Drawing at Lafayette Museum.

The drawing shows a scene from Acadian history. It is a depiction of the early days of the Acadian settlement in Louisiana.

The Acadians were a group of people who spoke French and lived in the Louisiana region. They were forced to leave their homes and were sent to other parts of the world.