Diverse group of Scouts gets taste of Cajun life

By BOBBY ARDOIN
Advocate correspondent

"We wanted the girls to get to touch each other's hands. We had a number of host families with French-speaking names for the girls. It made a big difference," said Carol Spisak.

What surprised Spisak was the "Cajun music" the girls experienced. "I didn't know there was so much interest in Cajun music," she said. "One of the girls asked to have a Cajun band play at her wedding."