French Cousins Coming To City

By Bob Angers Jr.

Acadiana, Alert! Historical societies, French heritage committees, cultural associations, Alert! More of our distinguished Canadian Cousins are coming to town!

Mrs. Leonce Boudreaux-Nelson, chairman of La Societe Historique Acadienne, is leading a tour of some 30 members of her national society to Acadiana arriving in the area tomorrow.

Details Not Available

While all details were not available at press time, the Advertiser has been reliably advised that John Nowlan of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation from Halifax, Nova Scotia is expected in Lafayette April 8 and will depart April 12. It is believed that the CBC trip coincides with the visit of the Acadian Historical Society.

Mrs. Boudreaux-Nelson, who is a professor at the University of Moncton in New Brunswick, was in Lafayette for the International Acadian Festival last December. She was so impressed with the hospitality and the beauty of the land, Mrs. Boudreaux-Nelson promised to lead a delegation here in April, 1969 for an extended tour.

Arrived Yesterday

Jean-Paul l'Allier, director of the office of Franco-Quebecois de la Jeunesse in Quebec City, arrived at the Lafayette Municipal Airport yesterday afternoon. He will meet at 5 p.m. today with area members of the council for the Development of French in Louisiana to discuss plans for a Louisiana-Quebec student exchange program this summer.

Leo LeBlanc, executive assistant to the premier of Quebec who has been in Lafayette three weeks; James Domengeaux, chairman of CODOF and Dr. Hosea Phillips, USL professor of French greeted l'Allier at the airport and welcomed him to Acadiana.
