FRENCH DELEGATION — Local leaders of the movement to expand the French language in Louisiana meet with a delegation from France that has been in the state since Monday to survey the needs of Louisiana in promoting bilingualism. They are (seated, left to right), Francis Debyser, director of the B.E.L.C., French agency for the teaching of the language; Louis Gillette, department of cultural affairs, ministry of foreign affairs; James Domengeaux, Lafayette, chairman, Council for the Development of French in Louisiana; and Philippe Breant, also with France's ministry of foreign affairs. Standing (left to right) are Rep. J. Luke LeBlanc; State Sen. Edgar G. Mouton Jr.; and Jean Pettinelli, French cultural consul at New Orleans. The group attended a luncheon in St. Martinville's Evangeline Park this afternoon. (Advertiser Staff Photo)
