French Trip To Begin On Sunday

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A group of 150 Louisiana teachers and students will leave here Sunday for France to start recruiting 200 instructors to teach French in southern Louisiana schools.

The group, representing the Council for the Development of French in Louisiana, will be headed by its chairman, James Domengeaux of Lafayette. Domengeaux will present letters of introduction to Georges Pompidou, president of France, from Gov. Edwin Edwards and Education Supt. Louis Michot.

Meet Official

The delegation will meet with French government officials to discuss CODOFIL's pilot program of French instruction on the elementary public level.

Domengeaux will emphasize the state's resolve to preserve its French heritage and to foster the French language and culture in Louisiana.
