FUN WHILE LEARNING — What could be more exciting to a child than learning to count by figuring out the number of legs on a potato animal. These students at the Lafayette Day Nurseries are watching their teacher, Miss Margaret Newman, explain the mystery of counting. Lafayette Day Nurseries is governed by a board of directors composed of members of Lafayette federated clubs and other interested citizens. Working mothers bring their pre-school children to the school in the early morning. In a bright cheerful atmosphere they receive not only professional care, but also pre-school training... A “head start” in their preparation for school. They are served a wholesome, nourishing meal at noon and snacks twice a day. The Lafayette Day Nurseries is one of twelve “Wonder Working” agencies supported by your gift to the United Givers Fund.
