OAKDALE — State Rep. Holman Jones has outlined two bills he plans to introduce in the 30-day fiscal session of the legislature opening Monday.

Only budgetary and money matters will be freely admitted for introduction in the session. Other bills will have to have a three-fourths vote approval for introduction.

Jones said he would ask the legislature to declare the Koasati Indians of Elton as members of a bonafide Louisiana Indian tribe. Such a declaration would be attended by a petition from the Louisiana legislature for federal aid to the Elton tribe.

Jones said the concurrent resolution would give official status to the tribe. This will facilitate applications to the U.S. Department of Interior’s Bureau of Indian Affairs for recognition and aid.

Another bill Jones plans to introduce would raise the sheriff’s share of Allen Parish taxes by 1.5 per cent. The additional funds would be used to hire narcotics agents.
