City Council amended its 2 a.m. alcohol sale curfew this week so that it will actually go into effect.

The council’s current law, which it passed October 5, stipulated that the law would not go into effect unless the police jury passed an identical law. The police jury did pass a sales curfew nine days later, but it allowed for a 3 a.m. closing in Friday and Saturday nights, effectively negating the city law. A recent amendment to the jury law says that the law may not be changed unless there is parishwide agreement on a uniform time.

The amended city law goes into effect December 1, and the council is expected to pass a resolution next week urging the police jury to move its effective date up from January 1 to December 1.