The Mall Wasn’t Built In A Day

How much concrete, bricks, and floor tile do you think it took to build the Acadiana Mall?

Building, maintaining and managing a shopping center in the heart of Acadiana Mall is no light task. Here’s a look at what went into the making of the Mall — and a few interesting facts about what it took to keep it running.

During the construction of the Acadiana Mall, the general contractor, J.R. Price & Sons of Millwood, Ark., employed over 1,000 workers at a time for more than 18 months.

With over 18 million board feet of lumber, Acadiana Mall is a massive structure that required a lot of hard work. But how much more material did it take to shape the Acadiana Mall as you see it today? The construction costs:

- 500,000 cubic yards of concrete
- 280,000 square feet of roofing
- 5,000 tons of steel
- 20,000 square feet of drywall
- 250,000 square feet of 100,000 square feet of floor tile
- 1,000,000 square feet of glass

Give Someone The Acadiana Mall

The Acadiana Mall sells gift certificates that can be used at any store in the Mall. The store of choice will be given the gift certificate. This is a great way to support local businesses while giving the gift of a shopping experience.

The gift certificates are available at the mall office, located at the end of the center that houses the Mall's common area, facing north. Buying a gift certificate is a great way to support local businesses and give the gift of a shopping experience.

Design: David Peters
Illustration: H. H. Petersen

With the Acadiana Mall, there is such a strong local culture that it provided something really rich to draw from. For the Acadiana Mall, designer J.R. Price & Sons of Millwood, Ark., employed over 1,000 workers at a time for more than 18 months.

The Acadiana Mall is more than just a shopping center; it is a community landmark. It is a place where locals can gather, shop, and enjoy the surrounding area. The mall is a testament to the hard work and dedication of those who made it possible.

The Acadiana Mall is a proud part of the community and a source of pride for all who live in Acadiana. It is a place where people can come together to shop, dine, and enjoy the many amenities it offers.

The Acadiana Mall is a shining example of what can be achieved when hard work and dedication come together.