CONSTRUCTION BEGINS — An artist's sketch is shown above of Maxim D. Doucet Hall, now under construction on the main quadrangle of the University of Southwestern Louisiana campus between Mouton and Foster Halls. The math-education building is to contain 60,000 square feet and will provide for 41 classrooms and 50 faculty offices. Parking will be provided in an area near the building for 120 cars. Dr. Clyde L. Rougeou, USL president, said that the completely air-conditioned building is being constructed at a cost of $1,350,000 from $900,000 in funds provided by the Construction and Improvement Commission plus $450,000 from a cash grant of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Low bid for the building was submitted by Roy Dupuis Inc. of Carencro. Robert L. Stephan, Lafayette, is the architect.
