What is probably a record for the state of Louisiana is the accomplishments of seven former principals of the Abbeville high school, all living now, who rose to become the superintendents of the Vermilion schools and continue to still higher achievements...the story was revealed at the 75th anniversary of graduation exercises at the school when they joined in presenting graduation certificates to the 1981 class members...the seven principals include Bob May who later became Dean of Education at the University of Southwestern and who lives in retirement in Baton Rouge...G.J. Ledet, Lionel J. Berry, Ray Broussard, Henry J. Bernard, Noah Langlinais and Cecil J. Picard who is now serving as senator for our district...more about his accomplishment in later stories in the Abbeville Meridional.
