Scouting the swamp

Charles Leonard, left, and a friend who identified himself only as ‘Wolf’ check out the Atchafalaya Basin near their homes north of the Belle River community to see if the water level has dropped enough to catch a few frogs. Leonard builds boats, including the one they are in, and ‘Wolf’ works on tugboats in southern parishes.

Stories, 5B.