The Caldwell House is just one of the many things to see in Abbeville.

Seeing the sites

Tour Abbeville’s historic buildings

Jim Bradshaw
jbradshaw@theadvertiser.com

ABBEVILLE — If you’re interested in older homes and buildings, good eating, and experiencing a bit of authentic Acadiana, Abbeville is a good place to spend a day.

It’s a pretty town, known particularly for its seafood restaurants, but it’s also a place where you can see historic old homes and businesses all in a compact area that can easily be visited on foot.

“Downtown Abbeville is very walkable,” according to Allison Miller, Main Street manager. Charlene Beckett agrees. “The beauty of Abbeville is it’s serenity,” she says. “It’s a great place