Shell Honors Delcambre Man

C. J. Thibodeaux of Delcambre attended the annual banquet of the Ten and Over Club, an organization honoring senior employees of Shell Oil Company, Friday, November 8, in the Petroleum Club, Lafayette.

Thibodeaux, with 10 years service, was among 67 members from South Louisiana invited.

G. W. Harris served as master of ceremonies, and J. E. Wilson of New Orleans, vice president for Shell’s New Orleans Exploration and Production area, was the featured speaker.

The Ten and Over Club is organized by Shell to honor its employees with 10 or more years service. Golden pecten shaped pins, tie bars, and charms, some set with gems to mark appropriate lengths of service, are presented at the dinners.

Membership in Louisiana alone runs into thousands, but only those celebrating anniversary years in increments of five — 10, 15, 20, 25, etc. — are invited to attend in any one year.

The Lafayette dinner was one of several scheduled for the club. Others are being held in Houma, Jackson, Miss., and New Orleans.
