Southwest Louisiana Finds Riches in Cattle Business

BY NELSON D. PROCTOR

Lake Charles, La. (AP) - Southwest Louisiana is going to be a cattle center. The region will be one of the largest beef supplies in the country, with cattle and calves moving from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. The livestock business is getting underway in Southwest Louisiana, and the future looks bright for the region. The conditions are ideal, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. There is a large market for beef in Southwest Louisiana, and the cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come.

Nearer to Ideal

They're hearing that beef is a bit too expensive. In recent weeks, the price of beef has been rising, and some people are thinking of raising cattle in Southwest Louisiana. The region is well suited for cattle raising, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be more for dairying than on the cattle business and cattle raising. The cattle business is going to be strong in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

The Cattle

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.

Southwestern Louisiana is going to be a major supplier of beef, with plenty of grass, water and a good climate. The cattle industry is expected to grow steadily in the years to come, and Southwest Louisiana will be a major supplier of beef.