BR residents,
Soviet visitors gain
insight on cultures

BY CALVIN GILBERT

It was quite a start to the program for the Communist visitors from Moscow, as they arrived at the Holiday Inn in Baton Rouge. The visitors had been waiting all week for an opportunity to see the city, but the experience was not without its challenges.

The visitors were greeted by a welcoming reception at the hotel, where they were introduced to American hospitality. The visitors were then taken on a tour of the city, where they were shown some of the sights and sounds of Baton Rouge.

The visitors were also taken to the Louisiana State Museum, where they were able to see some of the exhibits and learn about the history of the state. The visitors were also able to attend a performance at the Baton Rouge Civic Center, where they were able to see some of the local talent.

The visitors were also able to attend a reception at the Baton Rouge Country Club, where they were able to meet some of the local politicians and business leaders.

Overall, the visitors had a great experience in Baton Rouge and were able to gain a deeper understanding of the culture and history of the city.
