"We're facing a potential disaster," says County Agent Gerald Roberts, as he urged all parish sweet potato farmers to attend an important meeting tomorrow.

The parish Cooperative Extension office has scheduled an LSU specialist to discuss the control of insects in sweet potatoes on Monday, July 29, at 9:30 a.m. at Isaac and Kelly Stanford's sweet potato shed, located in Chataignier.

The LSU entomologist will present information and answer questions concerning recommended insecticides, their rates and application timing to control the weevil infestation. The critical infestation and destruction of plant beds will also be discussed.

For further information, call Roberts at 363-5646.
