The Advertiser, Lafayette
November 19, 1993
Page 1 - Column 2

ORLANDO, Fla. — For the second time in this year, an emer-
vie nurse of Acadian Ambulance & Air Med Services of Louisiana has been selected for the highest individual honor in the field of pre-hospital emergency medicine.

At the annual meeting of the American Ambulance
Association in Orlando, Fla., the 1993 National Paramedic of the Year Award was presented to Acadian Paramedic Gerald Sumrall. Last year, the honor went to Acadian Ambulance Vice President of Medical Reimbursement, Dr. James Lenzo. Lenzo received a $1,000 scholarship and a limited edition uniform to recognize his services to the profession.

Sumrall was one of a select group of employees of hospital and emergency medical services who were hired by Acadian Ambulance after hospital-based paramedics were adopted in July.

This year's accomplishment is the culmination of an successful career. Sumrall has been a prehospital provider for years. He was the first paramedic in New Orleans to receive the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification in 1974.

In the high ranks of the paramedic and EMT fields, Sumrall has been recognized for his exceptional skills and dedication.

Sumrall and his wife, Linda, have been married for 20 years and are preparing their first child next year.

Sumrall is a native of New Orleans and a 1974 graduate of New Orleans City College. He is currently working on his master of public administration degree at the University of New Orleans.

In addition to his full-time duties with Acadian Ambulance, Sumrall serves as a volunteer firefighter for three local fire departments.

The Advertiser, Lafayette
November 19, 1993
Page 1 - Column 2

ORLANDO, Fla. — For the second time in this year, an emer-
vie nurse of Acadian Ambulance & Air Med Services of Louisiana has been selected for the highest individual honor in the field of pre-
hospital emergency medicine.

At the annual meeting of the American Ambulance
Association in Orlando, Fla., the 1993 National Paramedic of the Year Award was presented to Acadian Paramedic Gerald Sumrall. Last year, the honor went to Acadian Ambulance Vice President of Medical Reimbursement, Dr. James Lenzo. Lenzo received a $1,000 scholarship and a limited edition uniform to recognize his services to the profession.

Sumrall was one of a select group of employees of hospital and emergency medical services who were hired by Acadian Ambulance after hospital-based paramedics were adopted in July.

This year's accomplishment is the culmination of an successful career. Sumrall has been a prehospital provider for years. He was the first paramedic in New Orleans to receive the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification in 1974.

In the high ranks of the paramedic and EMT fields, Sumrall has been recognized for his exceptional skills and dedication.

Sumrall and his wife, Linda, have been married for 20 years and are preparing their first child next year.

Sumrall is a native of New Orleans and a 1974 graduate of New Orleans City College. He is currently working on his master of public administration degree at the University of New Orleans.

In addition to his full-time duties with Acadian Ambulance, Sumrall serves as a volunteer firefighter for three local fire departments.

The Advertiser, Lafayette
November 19, 1993
Page 1 - Column 2

ORLANDO, Fla. — For the second time in this year, an emer-
vie nurse of Acadian Ambulance & Air Med Services of Louisiana has been selected for the highest individual honor in the field of pre-
hospital emergency medicine.

At the annual meeting of the American Ambulance
Association in Orlando, Fla., the 1993 National Paramedic of the Year Award was presented to Acadian Paramedic Gerald Sumrall. Last year, the honor went to Acadian Ambulance Vice President of Medical Reimbursement, Dr. James Lenzo. Lenzo received a $1,000 scholarship and a limited edition uniform to recognize his services to the profession.

Sumrall was one of a select group of employees of hospital and emergency medical services who were hired by Acadian Ambulance after hospital-based paramedics were adopted in July.

This year's accomplishment is the culmination of an successful career. Sumrall has been a prehospital provider for years. He was the first paramedic in New Orleans to receive the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification in 1974.

In the high ranks of the paramedic and EMT fields, Sumrall has been recognized for his exceptional skills and dedication.

Sumrall and his wife, Linda, have been married for 20 years and are preparing their first child next year.

Sumrall is a native of New Orleans and a 1974 graduate of New Orleans City College. He is currently working on his master of public administration degree at the University of New Orleans.

In addition to his full-time duties with Acadian Ambulance, Sumrall serves as a volunteer firefighter for three local fire departments.

The Advertiser, Lafayette
November 19, 1993
Page 1 - Column 2

ORLANDO, Fla. — For the second time in this year, an emer-
vie nurse of Acadian Ambulance & Air Med Services of Louisiana has been selected for the highest individual honor in the field of pre-
hospital emergency medicine.

At the annual meeting of the American Ambulance
Association in Orlando, Fla., the 1993 National Paramedic of the Year Award was presented to Acadian Paramedic Gerald Sumrall. Last year, the honor went to Acadian Ambulance Vice President of Medical Reimbursement, Dr. James Lenzo. Lenzo received a $1,000 scholarship and a limited edition uniform to recognize his services to the profession.

Sumrall was one of a select group of employees of hospital and emergency medical services who were hired by Acadian Ambulance after hospital-based paramedics were adopted in July.

This year's accomplishment is the culmination of an successful career. Sumrall has been a prehospital provider for years. He was the first paramedic in New Orleans to receive the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification in 1974.

In the high ranks of the paramedic and EMT fields, Sumrall has been recognized for his exceptional skills and dedication.

Sumrall and his wife, Linda, have been married for 20 years and are preparing their first child next year.

Sumrall is a native of New Orleans and a 1974 graduate of New Orleans City College. He is currently working on his master of public administration degree at the University of New Orleans.

In addition to his full-time duties with Acadian Ambulance, Sumrall serves as a volunteer firefighter for three local fire departments.

The Advertiser, Lafayette
November 19, 1993
Page 1 - Column 2

ORLANDO, Fla. — For the second time in this year, an emer-
vie nurse of Acadian Ambulance & Air Med Services of Louisiana has been selected for the highest individual honor in the field of pre-
hospital emergency medicine.

At the annual meeting of the American Ambulance
Association in Orlando, Fla., the 1993 National Paramedic of the Year Award was presented to Acadian Paramedic Gerald Sumrall. Last year, the honor went to Acadian Ambulance Vice President of Medical Reimbursement, Dr. James Lenzo. Lenzo received a $1,000 scholarship and a limited edition uniform to recognize his services to the profession.

Sumrall was one of a select group of employees of hospital and emergency medical services who were hired by Acadian Ambulance after hospital-based paramedics were adopted in July.

This year's accomplishment is the culmination of an successful career. Sumrall has been a prehospital provider for years. He was the first paramedic in New Orleans to receive the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) certification in 1974.

In the high ranks of the paramedic and EMT fields, Sumrall has been recognized for his exceptional skills and dedication.

Sumrall and his wife, Linda, have been married for 20 years and are preparing their first child next year.

Sumrall is a native of New Orleans and a 1974 graduate of New Orleans City College. He is currently working on his master of public administration degree at the University of New Orleans.

In addition to his full-time duties with Acadian Ambulance, Sumrall serves as a volunteer firefighter for three local fire departments.