LAFAYETTE, La. - Three Louisiana foreign language teachers are scheduled to return to the United States from Paris Sunday after inspecting courses which Louisiana students will be taking in a summertime student-exchange program with France.

Teachers making the trip are members of the newly formed academic advisory board to the Council for the Development of French in Louisiana (CODOF-IL). The board is composed of representatives of the foreign languages departments of all Louisiana colleges and universities.

Those on the trip are Dr. James Redfern, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge; Dr. Elmore Degrange, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages at Southern University in Baton Rouge; and Virginia Koenig, who was to represent Dr. Richard Chandler, head of the Foreign Languages Department at the University of Southwestern Louisiana in Lafayette.
