VICTORIAN HOME — The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barousse Jr. of Crowley, one of the stops along the tour of homes, was built in 1892 by Thomas J. Tolar, a Crowley lumberman. It was constructed as a two-story, typical Victorian structure with eight fireplaces and galleries on both levels. The second story was removed during remodeling and the house's Victorian trim was replaced with Greek Revival Ionic columns and pediment in about 1909. Today, the home is a combination of Victorian and Greek Revival architecture. The gallery encircles the entire house and many of the windows contain the original stained glass and etched window glass. The attic, a fully partitioned second floor, features large stained glass windows which date to the turn of the century.
