Visit Today Sponsored by University, CODOFIL

Public will hear French diplomat and the Council for Development of French in Louisiana. M. Lefort will visit the college library at 2 p.m. Saturday, where he will be welcomed by Dr. J. H. Tarver, acting president of the Louisiana State University, and Dr. E. W. G. Brown, chancellor of the university.

Lafayette, La. — The public is invited to hear Charles Lefort, ambassador of France to the United States, speak on "The French-American Relations," at 2 p.m. Saturday at Angelle Hall on the University of Louisiana campus.

Ambassador Lefort, one of the small group of career ambassadors in the French Foreign Service, is coming to Lafayette to discuss the French and French-American relations with the students and faculty of the University of Louisiana.

Times-Picayune, March 8, 1971, p. 2