The mission of the Edith Garland Dupré Library, as an integral part of the University of Louisiana at Lafayette, is to support fully the instructional and research programs of the University by providing access to information through the teaching, acquisition, organization, and preservation of information resources in all formats to the University’s academic community, the region, and the state.
INSTRUCTIONAL SESSIONS
“One-shot” classes last for a class period. Coverage varies from a walk-through tour and hands-on practice with introductory search strategies to customized searches in subject-specific databases tied to an assignment or project.

We can provide instruction in your classroom or our Bibliographic Instruction Lab. The Bib Lab seats 30 students.

SEMESTER SUPPORT
Your departmental librarian will also provide support to your students throughout the semester for multiple or extended projects.

SUBJECT GUIDES
Your departmental librarian can create an online subject guide that provides tutorials and links to research tools and materials relevant to your specific course and assignments.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT
Your departmental librarian serves as your collection development liaison dealing with book and serial orders as well as an annual review of library materials. Please contact your library for materials you would like to request or to obtain a listing of current library materials.

ONLINE SUPPORT
Alternately, you can add your departmental librarian to Moodle.

Your students can directly access research assistance from a convenient and familiar online space. Additionally, students can request assistance as related to a specific information problem at the point of need, increasing the relevance and customization of instruction.

For information about adding your librarian to Moodle, please contact your departmental librarian.
